NO. 35

A FIENDISH PLAN TO ASSASSINATE

Congressman Ben Johnson
in Washington.

TRY TO SILENCE KENTUCKIAN
On District Bills—Attempt
Made to Burn Important Papers.

SPEAKER CLARK IS ANGERED

Washington, Aug. 24.—A plan to assassinate Representative Ben Johnson, chairman of the District of Columbia Committee, and thus remove his opposition to a bill favored by certain interests in Washington, is revealed in an affidavit in the possession of Speaker Champ Clark and Mr. Johnson. This was learned to-day.

The affidavit was sworn to in the Speaker's office recently by a reputable citizen of Washington, who, riding on an F street car, heard a man say that he had followed Mr. Johnson for three nights, just preceding, for the purpose of slugging the Kentuckian from behind and killing him. The Speaker, who is a close friend of Mr. Johnson, instantly had his informant prepare an affidavit, giving the name, street address and remarks of the alleged would-be assassin.

This information, given the correspondent of the Courier-Journal by a high source, comes as a culmination of the troubles which have beset Mr. Johnson in his fight against certain crooked interests in Washington. Some weeks ago, in the presence of the correspondent of the Courier-Journal, the Kentuckian summoned to his office the custodian of the House-office building and told him certain papers bearing on matters in District of Columbia Committee had been stolen. The custodian then remarked to all present that Mr. Johnson had previously reported several robberies among his papers.

On August 12 someone set fire to the closet where Mr. Johnson keeps his important committee papers. Apparently to prevent quenching the blaze, the door of the closet, after the fire was lighted, was locked and the key carried away.

As was related at the time, entrance was gained to the room in which the closet is located by cutting a hand-hole in a wire door which opens on a balcony and then turning a lock on the inside of the wire door.

The news of this peculiar fire, which Mr. Johnson extinguished by battering down a mahogany door with a sledge hammer, set his intimate friends to discussing the persistent attempts that have been made to render Mr. Johnson's committee work inefficient and to destroy his character.

Frequent plots have been laid to entrap him, but all failed, the corridors about his office doorway having been filled with shadowers.

He and the members of his family have been followed. Upon his suddenly opening unused office doors from the inside, strange men have almost fallen into his room, their eyes glued to the keyhole.

Discussions of this kind brought out the fact of the planned assassination. The man named as the alleged prospective murderer is, with a number of other residents of the district, directly interested in a district bill, which Mr. Johnson has been fighting.

In the affidavit the man is reported to have said that with Mr. Johnson out of the way, the bill could be passed. Friends of the Kentucky Congressman, becoming cognizant of these startling disclosures, have urged him to seek protection in the courts.

His reply has always been: "I'll take care of myself without calling for help," and he has always done so. Speaker Clark is enraged over the attempts against Mr. Johnson, and is backing him earnestly in his fight against certain District interests.

This work has steadfastly gone on. It was Mr. Johnson who secured a refund of over $75,000 to the Government from the District in connection with a public institution, and exposed the fact that the current tax system in Washington undervalues the places on Massachusetts avenue and similar streets and overvalues the small dwellings of the south-east section.

Through his accountant, Scott Mayes, of Springfield, Mr. Johnson has exposed other inequalities of taxation and expense sharing in public affairs of the Capital, that will eventually result in the saving of millions to the Government and the poor people of Washington.

BEN JOHNSON EXPOSES UNEQUAL ASSESSMENTS

Washington, Aug. 24.—How the rich have been escaping taxation in the District of Columbia and the poor been paying for the dodgers was graphically exposed in a report made to Congress by the District Committee, of which Representative Ben Johnson is chairman. The report marks a triumph for Mr. Johnson in his campaign to equalize taxation in the nation's capital. His committee found that at the last assessment $10,000,000 was taken of the assessments in the northwest, the rich and fashionable section of Washington, and the identical amount fastened onto assessments in the sections where the poor live.

"A total of over $400,000,000 has been constantly escaping taxation, representing big property that belongs to the rich," said Mr. Johnson to-day. "This enormous amount, if taxed, would take the District Government out of the debt in which it has studiously been running and relieve the Federal Government of the necessity to contribute the deficit and more. If the fixed rate of taxation in the District was fairly applied to rich and poor, the District would gain enough revenues annually to pay all its running expenses and to raise the extra sum which Congress has been in the habit of appropriating for it."

SPECIAL TERM OF THE
DAVIES CIRCUIT COURT

Judge Birkhead called a special term of the criminal court to order at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, August 27, for a four day's session which is held for the purpose of enabling those who are in jail to establish their innocence and be restored to liberty and to have a grand jury investigate several cases that have been referred to the next meeting of that body.

There are 10 cases that have been set down for trial at the term and the court is desirous of clearing them from the docket. Against four of the defendants, indictments have already been found. They are: Lillian White, nuisance; Hattie Howard, robbery; Anderson Walls, malicious cutting, and Will Hatfield, malicious shooting.

The six cases that the grand jury is instructed to investigate are against the following persons and for the following offenses: Jimmie Green, malicious cutting; Frank Theobald, robbery; Albert McFarland, Walter Ricks and Arthur Glenn, house-breaking, and Wiley Bullett, robbery.

WHAT WILL COME NEXT?
"HOT ICE" IS THE LATEST

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 22.—Prof. Percy W. Bridgman, of the Department of Physics, at Harvard, has succeeded in making "hot ice." He has manufactured some, having a temperature of 173 degrees Fahrenheit, and he is confident he can make it even hotter.

The hot ice was produced by putting the water under a pressure of more than 20,000 atmospheres (300,000 pounds a square inch). In appearance the hot ice was similar to the brand in general use.

MARVIN MILLER HONORED.

Mr. Marvin Miller, the efficient court stenographer of the Sixth Judicial District, has been elected president of the Kentucky Short-hand Reporters' Association, at the State meeting of the Association held at Lexington recently. The other officers chosen were: J. G. McLean, of Louisville, also a court reporter, first vice president; Harry Kilgore, of Catlettsburg, another official reporter, second vice president, and Mr. E. C. Rogers, of Lexington, secretary-treasurer.

Booker T. Washington, for the fourteenth consecutive time, last week was elected president of the National Negro Business League, in session in Chicago.

MORTALITY RATE AMONG CHILDREN

In Region Where "Protection" Reigns

IS ALWAYS QUOTED VERY HIGH

Striking Contrast Between That Section and Country at Large.

PLAIN QUESTION NOW ASKED

(By Clyde H. Tavenner.)

Washington, Aug. 24.—In the city of Lawrence, Mass., where the highly protected woolen mills hold forth; where boys and girls work for $2, $3 and $4 a week, and fathers and mothers work long hours for $5, $6 and $7 a week for full time, 47 out of every 100 deaths are those of children under 5 years of age. And of these 47 children, 35 are under 1 year of age. The doctors declare the big majority of these children perish because their mothers labor such long hours, under unsanitary conditions in the woolen mills.

But mark the percentage of child deaths in Lawrence particularly: Forty-seven out of every 100 persons that die in Lawrence are children under 5 years of age. Now compare this with Seattle, Wash. There, out of every 100 persons who die, but 19 are children under 5 years of age.

The average for the whole country is 27 children under 5 years of age instead of 47 as in Lawrence, and for the whole country 19 out of every 100 deaths are of children under 1 year of age, instead of 35, as in Lawrence.

In Fall River, Mass., where the Woolen Trust also operates, 90 out of every 100 persons that die, are children under 5 years. At New Bedford, Mass., another woolen mill town, 49 out of every 100 persons that die, are under 5 years, and the great majority of the 49 are babes.

These people who work in the woolen mills are "protected." That is, the multi-millionaire Woolen Trust magnates who come to Washington for excessive protection, say that the sole reason they desire tariff rates which give them a monopoly on American markets and permit them to charge double the value for woolen clothing, is that they are "protecting" their employees.

In addition to making this plea, the trust magnates, of course, make liberal contributions of money to the campaign funds of the party of protection. The result is such bills as Schedule K of the Payne-Aldrich law.

Here is a plain question for the American people to ask themselves: Why should they longer permit a comparative handful of millionaires to force them to pay exorbitant prices for every article of woolen clothing they wear, on the pretext of these rich men that they are "protecting" their employees, when these employees are not only not being protected, but are being paid such low wages that they are practically compelled to live like cattle?

SHE DIED FOR THE LOVE OF MAN WHO JILTED HER

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Aug. 25.—Miss Iva B. Tuggle, 15, of Winchester, who has been visiting at the home of Roger D. Parsons in this city for the last three months, shot and killed herself this afternoon in Mr. Parsons' yard. The suicide was committed among some shrubbery, the girl using a revolver.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were away from home and a note was found addressed to Mrs. Parsons saying that she was in love with a Winchester boy and he had jilted her. She was a niece of Mrs. B. H. Coyle, of this city.

BULL VISITED DENTAL AND TAILORING SHOPS

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 24.—Dashing on three flights of stairs, a big brown bull to-day invaded the tailoring shop of J. W. Gayle.

The bull playfully broke away from the man leading him, and the crowd watching his antics cheered. Their handclaps frightened the bull and he dashed along the street to the first opening and climbed the steps. The sudden appearance of the animal frightened the tailors. Their flight again frightened the bull, causing him to descend hastily to the second floor and dash into the dental office of Dr. J. W. Bowles, where he chased out a number of patients, who forgot their toothaches in their "get away."

Finally they captured the bull, which was paraded through the street, much to the amusement of the crowd.

ALLEGED LOOPHOLE IS FOUND IN WHISKEY ACT

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 26.—Grief came to the hearts of the temperance people and a corresponding joy to the "bootleggers," when it was discovered to-day that the principal clause in the Frost anti-bootlegging bill had been left out while being enrolled. The printed bill provided a heavy penalty for purchasing, procuring or delivering intoxicating liquors in local option territory.

Each place in the enrolled bill, except in the caption and the exemption of common carriers doing an interstate business, the word "delivery" was omitted. In the prohibitory clause the words "or to deliver to another" were left out, practically invalidating the act.

Dr. N. A. Palmer, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in this State, said that the omission of the word "delivery" must have been intentional, and the temperance organization in the State will demand an investigation. Senator Frost will be notified and the copyist of the bill will be ascertained and the name given out to the public.

THE SENATE ORDERS
A COMPLETE PROBE

Washington, Aug. 26.—Rigid investigation of all correspondence and financial transactions between members of Congress and John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Company and George W. Perkins, acting in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt in the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign, was ordered by the Senate this afternoon. The Penrose resolution directing Senator Clapp's sub-committee now investigating campaign contributions in 1904 and 1908, to entertain the extended probe, was amended by Senators Reed of Missouri, Poindexter of Washington, and Penrose of Pennsylvania. It was adopted without a division and on a viva voce vote. At 2:25 the House took an hour's recess, the leaders hoping in the interim that a definite hour of adjournment would be fixed.

Married in Owensboro.

The Owensboro Messenger of Friday says:

"Miss Cova Anderson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, was married Thursday morning to Mr. Theodore Heady, at Rockport, Ind. Mrs. Heady has many friends here in Owensboro and her husband is a prominent young man. He is considered one of the best horsemen in this section of the State. He is the son of Mr. Felix Heady."

The bride was born and partly reared in Hartford and has many friends here who wish her much joy and happiness in wedded life.

Trial in September.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 26.—Levi Lockhardt, alias George Blackburn, the desperado, who murdered Officer J. C. Dawson and seriously wounded Officer James Bell, in a swamp near Owensboro, on the Indiana side of the Ohio river, early in June, and who is now confined in the reformatory at Jeffersonville, Ind., will be taken to Rockport, Ind., the first week in September to answer the charge of murder in the first degree. The Rockport officials have been afraid to bring the man to Rockport, owing to such high feeling, and the Sheriff of Spencer county says he will have a special guard for the man when he is brought back for trial.

WIFE SELECTED HOUSES TO ROB

So That She Could Have
New Hats,

SAYS A CONFESSED BURGLAR

In Trying to Dodge Blame—
Bold Plea of Twice
Married Man.

WIFE SIMPLY SAYS NOTHING

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Alice Field-Long-Harmon-Wolf, wife of George Wolf, confessed burglar, was not a "clinging vine" wife according to her husband's latest confession, which has resulted in Mrs. Wolf's arrest. She was ambitious for her burglar husband and would say to him:

"Buck up, man; have some nerve. I want a hat and I want you to get me one to-night—do you hear?"

Thereupon, Wolf says, he was allowed to sleep until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning, when Mrs. Wolf would arouse him and would give him the address of the house she had selected for him to rob. Then she would send him out into the darkness with a parting admonition to "cheer up" and be "nervy."

When Wolf was arrested for the robbery of the other half of the house in which Superintendent of Police Hyland lives, the detectives were inclined to feel sorry for the wife, who asserted she had done all she could to prevent Wolf from going forth on nightly prowling.

Wolf had little to say about his wife and four "young persons in the home who called her mother."

He said he had been married before in Rushville, Ind., and the detectives made a trip there and found he had left his wife there to run away with another woman. The first wife obtained a divorce.

"She would urge me to get out and get more money," Wolf says in a written confession.

"She accused me of not turning in all I stole to her, and of giving it to other women. She said she needed money to pay the bills every week and I must get it. When she wanted a hat, she picked out a house and sent me to rob it and get the hat. I got a big black picture hat for her in a house in East Market street last spring."

Wolf was urged to remember addresses and names of places his wife "picked" for him, and with the help of the police record, he picked several. Then he signed the confession and the detectives went to the Dickson street house and found Mrs. Wolf. She compressed a pair of lips into a straight line and said nothing, but went to the police station, where she was slated on a charge of burglary.

AUTO PARTY INJURED
—MACHINE WENT WILD

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 25.—An automobile in which were Henry Veteto, the owner; W. W. Russell, of Echols, Ohio county, and two women friends, was wrecked near here.

The car is said to have left the road, striking a telephone pole. The two women were thrown into a tobacco patch and Russell was thrown against the front seat of the car. Veteto remained at the wheel. Russell's face was flattened, his nose crushed and his eyes almost knocked out. The women were bruised. A passing automobile brought the injured to Owensboro. Russell was removed to the city hospital.

"HELLO, CENTRAL, GIVE ME BABY," IS NEW CALL

Steubenville, O., Aug. 26.—Putting babies to sleep by telephone is the latest innovation in society circles here.

This method of quieting fretting youngsters whose mothers leave them at home while they enjoy bridge, was introduced by Mrs. Harry G. Zanier while attending an afternoon affair.

The nurse telephoned Mrs. Zanier that the baby had been crying for an hour, and that she could not quiet the child.

Mrs. Zanier gave a few hurried instructions to the nurse. A moment later the guests were surprised to hear Mrs. Zanier singing a soft lullaby into the transmitter.

The baby had been placed in a basket on a stand near the telephone, the receiver to its ear, and it was lulled into dreamland by the soothing tones of the mother's voice. In five minutes she had resumed her place at the card table.

A Body Blow.

A farmer carrying an express package from a Chicago mail-order house was accosted by a merchant who said: "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express charges on them, and besides, you would have been patronizing a home store." The farmer looked at the merchant for a full minute and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home papers and advertise? I read them and didn't know you had this particular line." [Kansas City Journal.]

Hot Shot From McHargue.

The Mountain Echo, the management of which caused L. B. McHargue to lose the Postmastership at London, takes this shot at Republican National Chairman Charles D. Hilles, who recently issued a statement concerning the situation in Kentucky: "It is impossible that Mr. Hilles was not aware of the steal in the Eleventh District. Why is he as silent as the tomb, then, in this matter, and so boisterous and explicit in others? We greatly fear that Mr. Hilles, if given as much latitude in the future as he has been given in the very recent past, will make dough out of Mr. Taft's cake. And we don't care much if he does."

Daviess County Teachers in Session

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 26.—With nearly 200 teachers enrolled, and prospects bright for the best institute ever held in this county, the Daviess County Teachers' Institute was convened at the court house this morning, with Dr. Fred Mutchler, of Bowling Green, as instructor.

Mr. W. S. Gunsalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for fourteen years, and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and takes pleasure in recommending it. For sale by all dealers.

For Sale, Farms—All sizes, from 6 to 300 acres. We can please you if you want to buy land.

A. C. YEISER & CO.,
Hartford, Ky.

Beginning Saturday, Aug. 24, and Ending With Saturday, Aug. 31

We are thoroughly convinced that the prices quoted below will bring you to our store during the very first day of our Sale, at which time, you can, of course, be better suited. In fact, you would do yourself justice to visit us many times before sale ends.

We have now only to say that we will expect you to be present and we will use our every endeavor to make this the greatest Money-Saving event you ever attended. We sell for cash to everybody and are giving to our customers, in the way of closer prices, what we formerly lost under a credit system. We can, of course, make you better prices—and do—than the stores that still have a credit system. Better prices, quality considered, are what you want. There is but one way to convince you and that is to have you visit us. Our argument for a cash system is simple, yet convincing. Under a credit system, you pay the bills of the customer who beats the merchant. Under our system, you pay only your own account. Keep this advertisement for reference during the seven days Sale and if you are a customer, we know you will be present. If you are not a customer, think seriously of this matter.

Woodrow Wilson, Scholar and Statesman, Democratic Candidate For President.

FARMERS SHOULD SUPPORT WILSON

Best Equipped Man For Presidency Since Lincoln.

SENATOR GARDNER'S VIEWS.

The Maine Statesman, Himself a Farmer, Declares That President Taft Would Continue to Tax Farmers of the United States and at the Same Time Compel Them to Compete With Canadian Farmers.

The reasons why those engaged in agricultural pursuits should support Governor Woodrow Wilson for president are strongly set forth by Senator Obadiah Gardner of Maine in an address to farmers.

Senator Gardner is a practical farmer, one who farms his own farm, and he is probably in closer touch and sympathy with country life and its environments than any other man in public life.

For twenty-five years Senator Gardner has been actively interested in the national grange, and for ten years he was the master of the state grange of Maine. A few years ago he came within a close margin of being elected governor of the Pine Tree State.

A little less than a year ago, when Senator Frye, who had represented Maine in the senate for thirty years, died, Governor Plaisted honored Mr. Gardner and recognized the agricultural interests of the country by appointing him to the United States senate, where he has made a most creditable record, devoting particular attention to the welfare of the great rural population of the country. He is now a candidate for re-election and will undoubtedly be successful.

In his address Senator Gardner says: To the Farmers of the United States.

Greeting: Being one of you and for the greater part of my life having been engaged in the practical everyday duties of my own farm, having been for twenty-five years past officially at work through boards of agriculture and the national and state granges, having served four years as second officer of the national grange and as master of the Maine state grange ten years, during which time the order in Maine added 3,546 members and attained a power and influence never held before, I feel I am in a position to speak from the standpoint of one who knows the farmer and his needs, and it is solely because of

THE PEOPLE AND THE CURRENCY.

In dealing with the complicated and difficult question of the reform of our banking and currency laws it is plain that we ought to consult very many persons besides the bankers, not because we distrust the bankers, but because they do not necessarily comprehend the business of the country, notwithstanding they are indispensable servants of it and may do a vast deal to make it hard or easy. No mere bankers' plan will meet the requirements, no matter how honestly conceived. It should be a merchants and farmers' plan as well, elastic in the hands of those who use it as an indispensable part of their daily business. From Woodrow Wilson's Speech Accepting the Democratic Nomination.

this that I am prompted to address you.

For years farmers have justly complained of being required to pull at the short end of the yoke because of unfair and unjust discriminations in legislation and transportation, and at the present time the farmers are charged with being the cause of the high cost of living when as a matter of fact, taken collectively, the amount invested in their business, the hours devoted to hard labor and everything connected with the details of agricultural life—they are, as a whole, the poorest paid class of people in this country while relatively the most important.

During all recent years farmers have been told what a great blessing has been theirs through the so called protective tariff, and yet to find a market for their principal crops they have had to compete in the markets of the world where the price is fixed. But suddenly it is discovered that the farmer is the sole cause for the high cost of living, and what happens? The president (Mr. Taft) with a total disregard for the interests of the farmers, submits a plan to open up to competition with the farmers of the United States the products of Canada while being careful to preserve the tariff or, more correctly speaking, the tax on all the farmer has to buy, which as clearly as anything can expose the hypocrisy and "humbuggery" of the claim that the tariff is any benefit to agricultural as compared with manufactured products.

Now, the farmers of this country have an opportunity to benefit themselves that has never appeared within my recollection, as the Democratic party has been compelled by the force of public opinion to nominate a man for the presidency who is the best equipped for that high office of any that have been nominated or elected since Lincoln—a man that I speak of from a personal acquaintance with and a knowledge of his fitness; a man of great natural ability, splendidly educated, not theoretically, but practically; a keenness of intellect remarkable for its grasp of every condition with which he is confronted, an indomitable courage to do right, and, above all, a great, broad tendency with and sympathy for all classes. He will make one of the most accessible presidents ever in the White House and through whom none will be refused a hearing, however humble, nor fail to receive justice at his hands. He is truly a marvelous man, and I wish every person in the United States could know him as I know him. And supplementing all these qualities is the addition that his home is one of perfect balance.

None can meet the splendid Mrs. Wilson and her three refined, cultured daughters with their perfect naturalness but must feel that the whole family of Woodrow Wilson was especially prepared to fill a great need in the present crisis in the history of our country, as were Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, and I would advise the farmers upon my reputation as a man if you want to protect your own interests and those of your families, if you want to render the greatest possible good to your country and future generations, if you want to contribute your part to the end that popular government under God shall not perish from the earth, then see that the Hon. Woodrow Wilson is elected president.

WHAT REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY IS.

What has the result been? Prosperity? Yes; if by prosperity you mean vast wealth, no matter how distributed or whether distributed at all or not; if you mean vast enterprises built up to be presently concentrated under the control of comparatively small bodies of men, who can determine almost at pleasure whether there shall be competition or not. The nation as a nation has grown immensely rich. She is justly proud of her industries and of the genius of her men of affairs. They can master anything they set their minds to, and we have been greatly stimulated under their leadership and command. Their laurels are many and very green. We must accord them the great honors that are their due, and we must preserve what they have built up for us. But what of the other side of the picture? It is not easy for us to live as it used to be. Our money will not buy as much. High wages, even when we can get them, yield us no great comfort. We used to be better off with less, because a dollar could buy so much more. The majority of us have been disturbed to find ourselves growing poorer, even though our earnings were slowly increasing. Prices climb faster than we can push our earnings up. From Woodrow Wilson's Speech Accepting the Democratic Nomination.

"Wilson and Marshall" looks good, sounds good, is good.

"MILKED" HIM, THEN THE COWS

Confiding Planter Met Broadway Farmer,

AND ALSO HIS QUIET NEPHEW

Went Out to Roam the City—
Matched Coins for Little Passtime.

SOON HIS $195 HAD VANISHED

Up from the South last Thursday morn came Benjamin B. Bonknight, who, though but twenty-one, is a cotton planter in Johnston, S. C. No previous excursion from home had ever brought him to this wicked city, but its subtle dangers threw no fear into the heart of Benjamin for, nailed to the inner seam of the right trouser leg he had $45 in cash and three $50 checks on the Edgefield Bank of South Carolina, of which his father is president.

In the afternoon he ambled up Broadway, a highway that had been in his dreams many times. He was nearing the next important bit of scenery, Forty-second street, when a haberdashery display commanded his attention. To the same window came another young man, name Arthur Burton, aged twenty-six, occupation bookkeeper, and habitat No. 109 West One Hundred and Tenth street.

From what is alleged it appears that Burton observed, as he gazed in rapture upon a striped necktie, that he was a stranger to these here parts and that the village in its size and splendor was most impressive. Countering, Benjamin remarked that he, too, did not know his New York, whereat the other may have laughed inwardly, yet saying outwardly:

"Let us then, my friend, roam these, our virgin fields, together."

They selected the best local vehicle for roaming, the subway, and in it they wandered to Bronx Park where they looked upon the gazelle, the goat and the elephant, the latter animal being one that to Burton was a most unique creature, one that he had often heard of but had never seen. And trusting Benjamin heard and believed.

They parted, to meet again at 8 p. m. They met and it was their plan to visit Coney Island. But they did not go, for Burton, so Benjamin relates, counseled a postponement of the trip until midnight, and advised a further inspection of Broadway in the intervening hours.

It came to pass that near the scene of the original meeting Burton's eye fell upon his Uncle Si, from Miller's Corners, N. H. Uncle Si was chasing the flies off Broadway. His whiskers were long and rather white and his slim form was mantled in a linen duster. His make-up was such that he shouldn't have been able to sell a blind man a basket of sour apples. Yet Benjamin trusted him, partly because Uncle Si produced what seemed to be a roll of regular money, remarking that he was out for a fairly good time.

Five drinks elapsed. Somebody not on Benjamin's side suggested matching for money. They started with pennies, says Benjamin, progressed to dollars and then to $100 bets, in the course of which the young Southerner was cleaned of cash checks. There was talk of giving the money back to Benjamin, but it never became too serious.

The trio went to a roof garden. The interest of Uncle Si and his nephew languished very quickly, particularly that of the uncle, who had to milk the cows at six o'clock the next morning. Uncle and nephew soon vanished.

Benjamin, who is now living at No. 155 East Thirty-seventh street, had planned to go to the home of friends in Sheffield, Mass., but he gave up the idea. Long contemplation induced the belief that all was not so very well, and he poured out some conversation at the West-Forty-seventh street police station.

Detective Marron set out for Burton and his uncle. He landed the former in front of the Hotel Metropole Wednesday night and yesterday morning, in Yorkville Court, Burton was held in $1,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny. He had nothing to say.—[New York World.]

"Cardui Cured Me"

For nearly ten years, at different times, Mrs. Mary Jin's of Treadway, Tenn., suffered with womanly troubles. She says: "At last, I took down and thought I would die. I could not sleep. I couldn't eat. I had pains all over. The doctors gave me up. I read that Cardui had helped so many, and I began to take it, and it cured me. Cardui saved my life! Now, I can do anything."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

If you are weak, tired, worn-out, or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, dragging-down feelings, pains in arm, side, hip or limbs, and other symptoms of womanly trouble, you should try Cardui, the woman's tonic. Prepared from perfectly harmless, vegetable ingredients, Cardui is the best remedy for you to use, as it can do you nothing but good. It contains no dangerous drugs. It has no bad after-effects. Ask your druggist. He sells and recommends Cardui.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President—Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey.
For Vice President—Gov. Thos. R. Marshall, of Indiana.
For Congress, Fourth District—Hon. Ben Johnson, of Bardonia.

Both Taft and Sherman have had the political death sentence read to them.

There is a lot written about the Third Degree and its questioning tortures, but most any married man knows what it is.

A bull moose is a pretty big critter for the Democratic game rooster to tackle, but the chicken will be found equal to the emergency.

A Chicago police matron says big men make the best husbands; that small men are usually nervous, fault-finding and fussy. Wonder if the same rule wouldn't apply to the ladies?

A Harvard professor has succeeded in making "hot ice." Well, what is the difference between that and the stuff which is keeping the Roosevelt and Taft factions apart nowadays?

Ever notice that the people who are always giving advice or criticizing the actions of others, seldom seem to have anything else to do? Busy and industrious people have little or no time for "knocking."

A friend asks us what has become of the Hartford Court House Ring. Of, it is still here, laying low, sawing wood, with a sharp eye watching for the result of the Bull Moose and Elephant scrap in county, State and Nation.

The State Journal, published at Frankfort, seems to improve with every issue, if that could be possible. Mechanically, it has no superior, both in print and makeup, and editorially it has few competitors in the State. Its news features are well presented and altogether it is a "daisy" in the newspaper line.

With dripping beak and watery eyes
We snatch a minute to anathematize

The foe that comes each year;
The ragweed bloom that floats in air
And makes its pathway everywhere—

The hay-fever season is here.
Kitchoo! O, gee! Kitchoo!

Some of the alleged Roosevelt papers of this section seem to be very much hurt because the Democratic papers do not light into President Taft and abuse him and his candidacy in an unsparring and unceasing manner. Why, gentlemen, we are doing the best we can, within the bounds of reason and decency, but the Roosevelt fellows have been at it so strenuously, that it seems there is nothing left to be said along that line.

Gen. William Booth, founder and head of the Salvation Army, has passed to his sure reward. There are some people who make light of the Salvation Army methods of saving souls—their street gatherings, crude music and peculiar costumes—but the channel of many lives has been changed from bad to good by the pleas of and coming in contact with these humble workers for the Lord. The name of Gen. Booth will live for generations, while the Salvation Army marches on.

Perhaps some of the newspaper readers of Ohio county noticed that the call for a meeting of the Ohio County Republican Executive Committee for the purpose of disciplining estranged party men, was signed as secretary by Mr. J. Ney Foster, as printed in The Herald, but when this same notice was reproduced in the Hartford organ of the g. o. p., this signature was omitted, as was also the resolution of the Republican State Central Committee. Is the county secretary of the g. o. p. ashamed to see his name hitched up with important party matters any more?

It is said that some of the Roosevelt leaders in this county have been making overtures to the Taft forces that if the latter will all go in and help carry the county for Roosevelt this fall, that next year the Teddy men will reciprocate by affiliating with the Taft fellows in the election of a full county ticket, under whatever emblem the latter may desire. It is a very smooth scheme, but it remains to be seen whether old-line Republicans will take to it. The main idea of the Roosevelt forces is to gain control of the party machinery in county, State and Nation, and accomplishing this, it would be good-bye to regular Republicanism forever.

AS TO GOOD ROADS.

Every year there is the same old story of bad roads in Ohio county and this year there is the same tale to tell, only with added emphasis for badness. We do not know where lies the direct blame, but there are hundreds to bear witness to the fearful condition of our thoroughfares in many sections of the county. The method of working our roads is no doubt often at fault. There is no expert supervisor of all the work and much of it is done in a haphazard manner. For instance, there are said to be some sections where the road-grader has been used to throw up dirt to the road on each side, leaving a channel in the middle, which soon develops into chukholes. A split-log drag would have helped much. Proper draining seems to be almost a lost art. Many places are left in a condition of incompleteness which a half hour's work on the part of a few men with shovels would have placed in complete repair. The work has the appearance of being stunted.

Thousands of dollars are spent on the roads of Ohio county every year with about the same general result. It is evidently a waste of the people's good tax money to thus spend it. It is a matter which affects every man's purse and detracts from every farmer's prosperity, yet it is allowed to drag along without a remedy.

It would be a good idea to employ an experienced and practical road-builder and put all the roads of the county under his supervision. Give him full authority and demand of him sure results. The last Legislature provided for the appointment of County Road Engineers. Road-making may seem like a simple thing, but there is not one man in ten who has had expert experience enough to give him truly practical ideas in the matter. It is an old axiom that "too many cooks spoil the broth." The same thing can be said of too many bosses in road-making. Their combined ideas seldom agree in a general way, and the result is a mixture of good and bad, with the latter adjunct usually spoiling the whole scheme.

These are days of specialties along all lines, and the specialist usually studies his one particular profession thoroughly. A good farmer seldom knows anything about expert road-building, and the case can easily be reversed.

The condition of our public roads is one of the most important matters that affects the interests of all. Good roads mean prosperity and a good name for the county outside its confines. It would seem that so very important a matter should not be allowed to go unnoticed and unsolved, when there is so much at stake—the general welfare of all the people.

WHY WOODROW WILSON HAS BECOME POPULAR

Three years ago a certain man was known in his immediate circle only. Two years ago that man became Governor of a great State in this Union. Now his name is on the tip of every tongue. That man is Woodrow Wilson.

Woodrow Wilson did not come to be the most widely discussed man in the world to-day through accident. He has become what he is to-day because he is the scholar in politics; because he has devoted his life to studying and teaching and writing about the history of our country and its people.

Mayor Harrison caused dismay in Chicago's tenderloin when he ordered closed five resorts which the police had refused to molest.

CONGRESSMAN JOHNSON USES DRASTIC METHOD

Batters Down Door With Sledge and Stops Fire In House Office Building.

Washington, Aug. 21.—If Representative Ben Johnson had not borrowed a sledge-hammer from a street laborer and broken down a ten-foot mahogany door in the House office building to-day while members of the Capitol police force stood helplessly by wondering where the key to a closet door was, exceedingly valuable documents relating to the investigation of the city government of Washington would have been destroyed by fire and the building would have been endangered. Capitol sleuths to-night are looking for the person who started the fire. The door of the closet in which the fire was discovered was locked and the key had been stolen, a hole had been cut in a screen door leading from Mr. Johnson's office to a balcony which gave access to the room.

Miss Katherine Kirby, who is Mr. Johnson's stenographer, entered the office this afternoon after being absent about an hour. She went to the closet to get one of the documents relating to conditions in the excise school and real estate departments of the local government, and a little ribbon of smoke stealing from the top of the door attracted her attention. She called Mr. Johnson from the chamber of the House by telephone and at the same time notified the police. When Mr. Johnson arrived, several policemen were standing around helplessly and wondering where the key was.

"Get me an ax," shouted Mr. Johnson.

"There isn't any," said a policeman.

"Get me something," yelled the Kentuckian.

Everybody scurried around, but nothing only a small hatchet could be found. Mr. Johnson grabbed it and swung it viciously against the big mahogany door, the handle snapped and the door was scarcely dented.

Mr. Johnson halled a laborer, who was working on the street railway track outside the window. The man came in with a sledge-hammer. Mr. Johnson swung it around his head several times and battered the door down.

Inside, an old coat and the pile of papers were burning merrily. A cloud of smoke rushed out. A little water soon put out the blaze. The papers were only scorched and most of them are as good as ever.

"Friction over the new liquor bill for Washington caused the blaze," remarked a wag, who was looking on.

It has been rumored that when the District of Columbia Committee, of which Mr. Johnson is chairman, makes its report, there will be a scandal. The papers have been guarded carefully and the greatest secrecy maintained concerning them.

HOW DEMOCRATS HELPED LABOR CAUSE IN HOUSE

Chairman W. B. Wilson, of the Committee on Labor of the Democratic House of Representatives, pointed out in a recent speech in the House that the labor interests of the country had received more consideration from the present Democratic House than had come to them in many years.

He laid special stress on the fact that the Democrats had restored to government employees the right of petition—a constitutional privilege that had been taken away from them by executive orders under both Roosevelt and Taft—and on the further fact that the Democratic party had lived up to its platform promise in the treatment of labor. Mr. Wilson cited fifteen specific measures beneficial to labor that had been passed by the House at the present session at the request of the workers of the nation.

Prominent among the list is the eight-hour bill, extending the operation of this law to work done for the Government as well as work done by the Government; the anti-injunction bill, to protect workmen during wage disputes; the contempt bill, to provide for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt; the bill creating a Department of Labor; and the investigation of Taylor and other systems of "scientific shop management," which impose undue hardships on working men.

Esq. W. P. Render Hurt.

Esq. W. P. Render, of near Matanzas, this county, met with a very painful and serious accident last Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock. He had gone with his team and wagon to Matanzas to get a load of lumber for his barn. On reaching the mill, his team became frightened and ran away, throwing him from the wagon dragging him several feet and bruising him about the head, body and limbs.

He was soon picked up by parties at the mill and carried to Mr. Purd Tichenor's residence near by and Dr. Smith, of Centertown, was called and dressed his wounds, after which he was taken home in a wagon. Mr. Render was resting as well as could be expected at the hour of going to press, his age 72, and extent of his injuries considered.

Congress Adjourned.

Both Houses of Congress adjourned sine die at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Senate yielded to House protests against "State" claims and passed the general deficiency bill with the claims eliminated. The Penrose resolution providing for further inquiry into Standard Oil campaign contributions and including alleged contributions of George W. Perkins, was passed. The total appropriations for the fiscal year 1913, which began July 1, 1912, amount to $1,619,636,143.66.

Grand Secretary Grant Dead.

Capt. H. B. Grant, Grand Secretary of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Masons and Grand Chapter, and Grand Recorder of the Grand Council of Kentucky, died at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning at his residence 2823 Virginia avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Capt. Grant's death was due to pneumonia, from which he had been a sufferer for a little more than a week.

Tombstone For a Canary.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 24.—Frank Shafer, a local business man, to-day ordered a marble slab from a local monument dealer to go over the grave of his pet canary bird, which died last night. Shafer invited in several of his friends when he gave the bird a decent burial in his back yard.

Mr. Wayne Ellis, of West Hartford, will leave to-day for Sturgis, Ky., where he goes to accept a position with a coal company. His family will remain on the farm for a while before going to Sturgis. Mr. Ellis is one of Ohio county's best citizens whom we regret to lose from our midst.

Mr. W. A. Cueman, Jr., Post-Office Inspector, was in Hartford last week and after going over the rural routes of the county, he requested the postmaster at Hartford, Mr. R. B. Martin, to see the various Magistrates and request them to have the roads of the different rural routes worked, as he found the roads in very bad condition.

The meeting conducted by Revs. T. V. Joiner and J. W. Crowe at Mt. Hermon closed last Sunday night. There were 22 professions of faith and 8 additions to date. There was a great revival in the church. Rev. Crowe did the preaching, which was in demonstration of the Holy Spirit and great power. He is a great revivalist. The congregations were large.

Miss Henrietta Gunther, who for a number of years has been assistant postmaster and virtually at the head of the actual work of the post-office here, has tendered her resignation to postmaster Martin, to take effect September 1st. No more popular and efficient assistant ever served in the office here, and Miss Gunther has a host of friends who will miss her pleasant face behind the postal window.

Several prisoners have escaped through a hole in the floor of the corridor of the Ohio county jail since the Crowe men got away through the same aperture several years ago, that being a very easy job even then. This hole has been patched up several times, but the same thing is liable to occur again. Do not these escapes of prisoners constitute a very serious question, no matter from what cause? Who and what is to blame?

Mr. James H. Williams, one of our local druggists, received notification recently that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Louisville College of Pharmacy, he was duly elected as an active member. In doing this, Mr. Gordon L. Curry, dean of the College, says: "We feel sure that we have not only gained a friend of pharmaceutical education, but have acquired a valuable adjunct as well." It is a nice honor, worthily bestowed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Smith, Jr., Fordsville, accompanied by Miss Nancy Ford, brother Edward, and sister Ambie Ford, came to Hartford Monday. Mr. Smith returned home Monday afternoon. Mrs. Smith, Nancy, Edward and Ambie will return to Fordsville to-day. Nancy, Edward and Ambie Ford will leave in a few days for Winchester, Ky., where they will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. William Ford, while Dr. E. W. Ford, their father, is regaining his health.

A letter received by The Herald scribe from Dr. E. W. Ford, who is now at Hazelwood Sanatorium, Louisville, says: "Have just entered this institution, primarily for the benefit of my health, and secondarily to study the institutional treatment of tuberculosis, especially in our own climate, and if I get along well here, will likely investigate the plans of other places before I return to work." The Doctor's many friends here hope for him a speedy recovery and much practical knowledge from his stay.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF FARE TO BEAVER DAM

I wish to thank the public, and especially my patrons, for the liberal patronage they have given me over my automobile line between Hartford and Beaver Dam. And in order to show you how much I appreciate your business, I will make a reduction in fare to 25c, thereby saving you 25c each journey. Now, if you appreciate this, please give me your business. I have one of the best automobiles on earth, and a good up-to-date chauffeur. Remember who took you from the rough old bus and put you in an automobile. Also remember who reduced the price.

Respy, DR. L. B. BEAN.

Notice.

School Funds Apportioned.
Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 26.—The Department of Education to-day announced the apportionment of the school fund among the counties. The per capita is $4 for each pupil, and to this is added the county's share of the dog tax bonds, so that every county has more than the apportionment from the State.

According to this apportionment Ohio county gets $4.15 per capita, amounting to $36,305.32; Davies, $4.15, amounting to $53,981.37; McLean, $4.15, amounting to $17,765.19; Muhlenberg, $4.11, amounting to $37,302.88; Butler, $4.36, amounting to $22,773.24; Grayson, $4.06, amounting to $27,658.81; Reckenridge, $4.10, amounting to $27,741.81, and Hancock, $4.31, amounting to $11,160.72.

The Ohio Quarterly Court convened in court hall here Monday, Judge R. R. Wedding presiding. With forty cases to be disposed of. The work of the court will be completed to-morrow.

MEETINGS ARE CALLED TO DETERMINE PRICE

On This Year's Crop of Tobacco
—To Be Held Next Saturday.

Calhoun, Ky., Aug. 26, 1912.
Notice to all tobacco growers of the Green River District A. S. of E. and Home Warehouse Co.

At the July District Convention A. S. of E. held in Fordsville, Ky., the following resolution was adopted, viz:

"Whereas, it is a fact unassailable that the man who produces an article is the only man who has the right to fix the price thereon, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the following method be pursued in fixing the price on this year's crop of tobacco: That a call be issued by the District Chairman for a meeting of all farmers who have pooled their tobacco with the A. S. of E. and Home Warehouse Co., to meet in their respective schoolhouses on the last Saturday in August and fix a price on the tobacco and elect one of their members to attend a county meeting of their county, where an average of the school district prices shall be made and one of these delegates elected to take the average price to a meeting to be held in Owensboro, Ky., where an average of the counties shall be found and said average shall be the price, below which no committee shall have power to make a sale except subject to the ratification of the poolers."

In accord with the foregoing resolution, we hereby call for all who have pooled with the A. S. of E. and Home Warehouse Co. to meet in their respective schoolhouses at one o'clock on Saturday, August 31st, and set price on their tobacco as provided in the foregoing resolution and further call for the delegates from these meetings to convene at the several county-seats at one o'clock on Monday, September 2d, and proceed to get an average price from reports from the school districts; and further, that the delegates from the several counties meet in Owensboro on Thursday, September 5th, and proceed to fix price on the tobacco of the district as provided by the foregoing resolution.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE AND HIS DUTIES

Paper Read Before Teachers' Institute.

THE MATTER ABLY EXPLAINED

By Mr. E. G. Austin, Who Says Harmony is the Essential Thing.

SOME EXPERIENCE RECOUNTED

[The following is the address read at the recent meeting of the Ohio County Teachers' Institute upon the subject of "The Sub-district Trustee and His Duties," by Mr. E. G. Austin. A motion was made by Prof. Ozna Shultz, seconded and carried, that the address be printed in the county papers. We explained last week how it was crowded out of the regular proceedings, and that it would appear this week.]

The duties of the sub-district trustee are so many that I fear many of us fall far short of performing our whole duty. The one I consider first and foremost, the one on which all others depend, is that of preserving harmony. Without harmony we cannot have a concert of action in any of our undertakings, and without a concert of action, the burdens of supplementing the public fund in order to get the best services of teachers, beautifying the grounds, securing the aid of the patrons in the selection of teachers, and many other things too numerous to mention here, would have to be borne by just a few individuals and fall so heavily upon them that they would fall short of their undertakings.

A school district can accomplish almost anything they undertake when they go about their work harmoniously, all acting with one accord to accomplish the same results. We, in our feeble efforts, try as best we can to keep the idea prominently before the patrons of our district that we are a band of brothers; that others may have dissensions and strife, but that we will have nothing of the kind; that we are successful in what we undertake to do because of the brotherly feeling we have for one another. When all the patrons of a school district ask for any thing that is reasonable, just and right, they are sure to get what they ask for. When they are divided, some asking for one thing and some another, somebody is sure to get what they don't want, and the entire district has lost its prestige in the matter, and are sure to have to take what some one else may say they shall have.

How To Preserve Harmony.

It would be useless to speak of preserving harmony in the district without offering some plan by which it can be accomplished. I take the ground that there is just one way and but one, and that is to be willing at any and all times to submit to the will of the majority, regardless of our personal wishes in the matter. I sometimes think that we have more individual opinions and press them harder than any people on earth. The trouble comes when we lose sight of the fact that there is a time when private opinions become public property and that the individual no longer has any right to his individual opinions and when he undertakes to hold on to them beyond the line of demarcation he at once becomes a mischief maker; he has lost his position as a worthy brother, and has become an enemy to his best friends.

The line of demarcation is drawn when the vote is cast. Present your opinions. Yes, by all means present and defend them, with all the power and eloquence at your command. I detest the fellow who will sit like a dummy through the proceedings of a public meeting and never open his mouth to present or defend his opinions in the matter and then go away finding fault with what was done. But when you have done your very best, when you have presented your thoughts in the most forcible manner and defended them as best you could and find yourself in the minority, when the vote is cast and the final count is made, then it is your duty to acknowledge defeat and come over with the majority, and say with that brotherly spirit, "I am with you, boys; let us make the vote unanimous."

Put these few simple rules into practice, brother trustees, and my word for it, you will have no more dissensions and your school will prosper as it has never prospered before. Ten school patrons working together as one are stronger, nay many times stronger, than a hundred where there is strife existing in the community.

The Needs of the District.

The next most important duty of the trustee is that of preserving harmony in a close and critical study of the needs of the district. If there is a new house needed, he should know how large it ought to be, to meet the demands of the district, and he should insist on it being built of sufficient size to fully meet those demands and no larger. He should see that the contract for building, as let out by the contractors, is carried out to the letter; that all the materials used in the construction of the house come up to the specifications, and that the work is done in workmanlike manner. If it is necessary to change the location, he should, with the aid of the patrons, select the most desirable location to be had in the district, with due respect to the convenience and comfort of every pupil in the community. He should encourage a spirit of rivalry in his district with other districts and try to excel all others in the county in beautifying the school grounds; in employing the best teachers possible; in installing the best library of any school in the county, and above all things to keep the fact before the patrons of his district that the pupils of his district can be educated up to the limit in the home district much cheaper than anywhere else.

When we contemplate boarding one pupil away from home, and count the cost for a few months, we find that it costs more to send one to school in that way than it does to supplement the public fund and hire one of the best teachers in the county to teach the pupils of the entire district. He should encourage public meetings at the schoolhouse for the purpose of discussing the needs of the district, and when he has made a careful study of all the needs of the district, he should call a meeting and insist on as large attendance as possible for the purpose of taking up the next most important line of duty that falls to his lot.

The Wishes of the People of the District.

No trustee can be a success without putting forth every effort at his command to carry out to the letter the wishes of the people who have elected him as their chairman, and he should not assume any authority other than that of acting chairman. All power is vested in the people, and if a trustee loses sight of that fact, he will soon get into trouble and kill the interest in the school in his district.

If the trustee regards the interests and rights of the people, he will soon be able to command the respect of the patrons and secure their aid in all of his undertakings. The selection of a teacher should be made at a public meeting, called by the trustee for that purpose, and if the public fund must be supplemented by a subscription, it can be done easier while everybody is present, if the right spirit has prevailed during the meeting. Everybody has become enthused and they will subscribe more liberally than they would if the trustee visited them singly.

The trustee should try to impress upon the minds of the people that they have a work to do and that he cannot do it for them half so well as they can for themselves with his aid as chairman.

Your humble servant has been trying for the last six years to get up interest enough in his district to get the people to meet him at the schoolhouse and make their own selection of teacher and discuss other interests of equal importance. His efforts were crowned with success in the selection of our present teacher, and in less than fifteen minutes after he had been elected as teacher, we had forty dollars subscribed to supplement the public fund in order to raise his salary and the last day of his school I expect to collect every cent of that money at the schoolhouse, where all collections should be made. We have had two splendid subscription schools in the last two years, of three months duration each. At the end of the school the patrons were notified by the trustee that they would be expected to meet the teacher on the last day and pay her for her services. They did so and did it willingly and cheerfully. I feel that we have the habit established and that we will have no more trouble along that line.

At the beginning of our last subscription school our teacher offered the suggestion that we needed a library. I told her that we would see about it and that we would begin by asking the scholars what they thought of the matter and a few of them expressed themselves as being in favor of it. We insisted that they should take an active part in the matter one way or the other, and that we were going to put it to a vote of the entire school and we wanted every one of them to vote one way or the other and when the vote was counted, it stood unanimously for a library. We now have ninety or more volumes, all paid for, and a few dollars in the treasury with which to purchase more books and we have in addition to that, eighteen dollars and thirty-five cents in the treasury with which to pay for reading charts and a bookcase.

THE SETTING OF HISTORY STRAIGHT—THE BATTLE

It was on Kettle Hill. The heroic Rough Riders were in a jam. They had left their horses at Palm Beach, and most of 'em couldn't run very fast. The bloodthirsty Spaniards gained upon them. All seemed lost.

Suddenly from out of the jungle appeared the Ninth Cavalry. With drawn sabers they charged the enemy. "Stop!" shouted Colonel B. M. Roosevelt. "I cannot permit myself to be saved until I learn whether any of you negroes are from the South."

Chagrined, the cavalrymen fell back. They were all from Dixie. And so the heroic Rough Riders fell there on the far-flung battle line. The whole valiant regiment was annihilated! — [Philadelphia Ledger.]

SOME VERY NEEDFUL

ADVICE TO TEACHERS

Which Really Concerns Them

Very Much, But Will

They Heed It?

School teachers, help your county newspaper.

Go to the office of your county newspaper, and hand its editor a whole dollar and ask him to send you the county paper for a year. Let us see what you will get in exchange: Accounts of all transfers of property in the county; improvements in roads, public buildings, and private property; stock news and crop reports; marriages, births, deaths of all friends and relatives; leading facts regarding State, National and world happenings; some funny stories to lighten the day's burdens; scientific notes and dairy comment; historical articles; pictures of some prominent people; perhaps a good story or two in the course of a year. Where else can you get so much for one dollar?

The editor may swoon, but he will recover, if the teacher asks him for something to do to help make his paper a success. Perhaps there is nothing you can do—but the editor will appreciate your offer of assistance. Perhaps he will hand you a bundle of paper, a few stamped envelopes, and ask you to send in the news from your neighborhood. If he wishes this, do it—and consider that you have your reward in knowing that you are fairly and wisely advertising your district. Perhaps you will be able to write a brief account of some happenings, or tell some worth-while story, that the editor will be glad to have. If so, be glad to give it. If you help him at all, give him material that is worth while—material that you will not be ashamed to sign your name to. But first of all, give him your dollar. He can live without your personal assistance, but he must have the financial support of his people if he serves them well.

Besides, had you ever thought how much advertising he gives the school affairs of the county? Many columns, from first to last, are devoted to schools and school affairs—and many a complimentary notice is given of a teacher who borrows his neighbor's paper in order to enjoy the pleasureable write-up. Quit this borrowing. Buy your own county paper: your own books—then you can mark them up, clip them, or otherwise use them for the best advantage.—[Southern School Journal.]

PROFIT TO-DAY IN THE GROWING Of Tobacco Is Not What It Should Be, SO SAY UNCLE SAM'S EXPERTS

Department Issues Circular Giving Reasons for In- ferior Yield.

RESULTS OF INVESTIGATIONS

Although the average annual production of tobacco in the United States reaches nearly 1,000,000,000 pounds, for which the farmer receives about $100,000,000, the net profit to the farmer is much smaller than it should be. Among the principal causes for small profits from such an important crop are failures to follow sound cultural methods, use of unadapted varieties or strains, damage by insects and diseases, and imperfect knowledge of the principles that apply to the processes of curing, fermenting and handling the leaf. To remedy these conditions the Department of Agriculture in 1898 began to investigate the improvement of tobacco production.

Cultured Methods—The early work of the Department with tobacco was confined almost entirely to the cigar types, but since 1905 investigations have been in progress in the manufacturing and export districts. In most of these districts the average yield has been much less than could be obtained by better culture methods. In the Connecticut Valley, where the soils are maintained in a high state of fertility, yields of 2,000 pounds and over to the acre are common, while on similar soils in many of the manufacturing and export districts the average yield is scarcely one-third of what it should be. One of the improper culture methods to which this lack of yield is largely due is growing tobacco on the same land year after year instead of practicing rotation of crops. The work of the Department along this line has been to correct this one-crop system of farming, whereby the fertility of the soil is exhausted. These efforts have succeeded so well that the production in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina has greatly increased, and the Virginia Legislature has made an annual appropriation of 5,000 in support of this work.

Breeding and Selection—In developing acclimated strains of Sumatra and Cuban tobaccos by systematic seed selection it was found that the old standard types could be greatly improved in productiveness and other characteristics, and several desirable types were produced. A large quantity of tobacco seed is grown directly under the supervision of the Department's tobacco specialists located in the various tobacco producing centers, and is annually distributed. Supplies of seed of the new and improved types are also distributed to those desiring to grow these types.

Scientific and Technical Investigations—Efforts to introduce the growing of a high-grade cigar-filler from Cuban leaf seed in the Southern States have demonstrated that this industry can be made a success. A satisfactory substitute for the imported Sumatra wrapper leaf has resulted by growing Sumatra and Cuban types under artificial shade, and in 1911 over 2,000 acres of such tobacco, worth $2,000,000, were grown under shade in the Connecticut Valley. The Cuban bulk method of fermenting has been successfully introduced into Northern cigar-tobacco districts, resulting in a more uniform and better product. Substantial improvements in the methods of curing are now being introduced, notably in the use of artificial heat in curing cigar tobaccos, thus eliminating the loss from pole sweat, which is estimated to have caused losses in some years amounting to $1,000,000 in the Connecticut Valley alone. Poor burning quality in cigar tobaccos renders them of little value. This subject has been thoroughly investigated and the principal influencing factors have been worked out. A somewhat unique feature of the laboratory methods was the development of the department new automatic cigar smoker, a device for smoking or burning under uniform and controlled conditions a large number of cigars used in the tests. This device has eliminated the necessity of the actual smoking of cigars by those conducting the tests, except for the final test for aroma. The necessity for such a device can only be appreciated by those who have been called on to try smoking a few hundred cigars made from raw tobacco in the effort to find the one good plant needed as the foundation for developing a type satisfactory to the exacting consumer.

Insects and Diseases—Satisfactory methods have been devised for controlling most of the important insects that attack tobacco, particularly those damaging the crop during the growing period. Tobacco is also subject to a number of destructive maladies, such as the mosaic disease, which occurs throughout the world, and the root-rot, a disease particularly troublesome in the Connecticut Valley. In 1906 the department perfected a soil-sterilizing device, which has been used very successfully wherever root-rot is prevalent.

The September Woman's Home Companion.
The September Woman's Home Companion is the fall fashion number. Under the direction of Grace Margaret Gould, who edits the Fashion Department, women are shown how they may dress fashionably and yet economically. There is a great variety of fashion articles and illustrations, including all the latest news from Paris and New York, which, as everybody knows, are the centers of dress ideas. Miss Gould's great contention is that women can keep in style and yet not spend extravagant sums of money. She proves her point ably and presents it entertainingly.

Special articles contributed to the September Companion are: "The Town That Had No Slums," "Three American Duchesses," being an intimate account of the Duchess of Manchester, the Duchess of Roxburgh, and the Duchess of Marlborough; "What Men Have Meant in My Life," being an extremely personal article by a great professional writer; "How I sing 'The Rosary,'" an article of advice to singers by Ernestine Schumann-Heink, a great operatic and concert star, and "Playing Fair," a practical talk to business girls, full of stories of actual cases and other real material.

A DISTRESS CALL FROM ROOSEVELT

Heard and Answered By Standard Oil.

BOIES PENROSE TELLS STORY Of Corrupt Political Dealings During the Campaign Of 1904.

MAKES A CLEAN BREAST OF IT

Washington, Aug. 22.—The hides of Theodore Roosevelt and William Flinn, the Progressive leader in Pennsylvania, were hung up to dry in the United States Senate to-day after Boies Penrose, Senator from Pennsylvania, had finished a magnificent job of skinning the wretches. Mr. Penrose arose to answer charges published recently in Hearst's Magazine concerning a correspondence that passed between Penrose and John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil Company, in 1904, and concerning a check for $25,000 revealed to have been sent Penrose by Archbold.

Senator Penrose took the attitude that this correspondence, having been for five years in the hands of William Randolph Hearst, and having only recently seen the light of day, was used to benefit his enemies in Pennsylvania—Flinn and Roosevelt. Accordingly he addressed himself to what these distinguished members of the Progressive party were doing in 1904, and made the following statements, backed up with sundry documents:

Flinn offered Penrose $2,000,000 for a United States Senatorship from Pennsylvania in 1905. The $25,000 from Archbold was a part of a contribution of $125,000 made to the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1904.

Cornelius N. Bliss, then treasurer of the Republican National Committee, insisted that Archbold give the campaign $150,000 more, saying that President Roosevelt and Chairman Cortelyou appreciated the $125,000 from the Standard Oil, and would greatly appreciate the other $150,000.

Flinn, a few months after the published correspondence between Penrose and Archbold occurred, wired Archbold and received a reply in cipher code, the subject being Flinn's hope that Archbold would enlist the support of Penrose and make Flinn the Senator. The $2,000,000 offer had previously been declined by Penrose.

Senator Penrose did not discuss why, as shown by the publication in Hearst's Magazine, Archbold was furnished with the report of the 1904 Industrial Commission before that was transmitted to Congress, but he made no attempt to conceal the fact that he and the Standard Oil group are and have always been on exceedingly intimate terms. What he set out to show, and conclusively showed, was that if his intimacy with and solicitude for Standard Oil is reprehensible, the conduct of Flinn and Roosevelt is both reprehensible and democratic. As regards the latter trait, no one ever discovered it in Penrose. The story he told to-day was a sordid account of how the great illegal corporations have been electing Republican Presidents, and how such Presidents as Roosevelt have solicited their campaign contributions. Senator Penrose laid everything wide open in the interest of showing what sort of men are Roosevelt and Flinn, who hailed their recent triumph over Penrose in Pennsylvania as the victory of Michael over Lucifer.

After hearing his story, Democratic auditors are convinced that the voters of Pennsylvania will this fall revolt alike against the open corporation machine, frankly claimed by Penrose, and the masked corporation machine, denied by Roosevelt and Flinn, and give Woodrow Wilson the electoral vote of that great Republican State. Indeed, the commission on the face of Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, as he sat listening to the Penrose speech, showed plainly that he feels that honest men get their dues when certain other gentry fall out and tell what they know about each other. Mr. Palmer is the brilliant young Democrat who carried Pennsylvania for Wilson in the primaries, defeated the Bethlehem Steel Company in its own bailiwick and has become the real leader of Democracy in the Keystone State.

That the Democrats fully realize what the confession of Penrose means to them, was indicated when Senator Culbertson, of Texas, upon the conclusion of the speech, at once demanded that the Senate consider his bill prohibiting the acceptance of campaign contributions from corporations. And Senator Stone, of Missouri, remarking that he saw Mr. Penrose was "at the confessional," asked him if he could not throw light on the Harriman-Roosevelt controversy.

Mr. Penrose replied that there were "certain documents hidden away in the archives of campaign committees, in safes and vaults, in lawyers' offices and other places, that ought to see the light of day, and probably would before this campaign ended, so that "the American people will no longer be gulled."

The entire occasion illustrated the determination of those Republicans whose aid Col. Roosevelt used to solicit and whom he now repudiates as unclean to prevent him from using that as a stepping-stone to the Presidency.

New Writers and Old in Lippincott's.

The September Lippincott's table of contents proves a strong plea for the diverting quality of American fiction. The complete novel is "The Ranch of the Blue Sea," by J. W. Muller. This is the first long story by a writer whose short-stories have brought him rapidly to the front during the past few months.

"Beautiful Sebastiana," a short novelette by Marie Van Vorst, is a story of love and adventure during the great Sicilian earthquake. "Wooing Dorothea," by Jessie A. McGriff, is an Atlantic City love story of an original type. Other noteworthy short-stories are "The Movable Feast," by Hulbert Footner; "Sanctuary," by John Fleming Wilson; "Seventy Times Seven" by Lizette Woodworth Reese; and "In the Kingdom of Not-in-the-Least-Bit-Like-It," by Kate Masterson. The "Short-Story Masterpiece" is "In Exile," by a Russian writer, Anton Chekhov. As usual, there is an introduction by the editor.

"A Plebe's Life at West Point," by W. S. Sample, is funny and interesting. Mrs. La Salle Corbell Pickett writes of Edgar Allan Poe under the title of "The Poet of the Night." Edward Sherwood Meade, Ph. D., contributes a financial article on "The Securities of Public Service Corporations."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Witter Bynner, Madge Morris, Anna McClure Sholl, and other poets have verses in the issue; John Kendrick Bangs, a funny sketch in rhyme called "The Landlord's Daughter," and half a dozen other contributors' epigrams. It is an exceptionally strong and well balanced number.

WHY NOT MAKE $200.00 A MONTH - - That's $50.00 a Week, almost $10.00 a Day

Selling Victor Safes and fire-proof boxes to merchants, doctors, lawyers, dentists and well-to-do farmers, all of whom realize the need of a safe, but do not know how easily it is to be obtained. Salesmen declare our proposition one of the best, clean-out money-making opportunities ever received. Without previous experience YOU can duplicate the success of others. Our handsomely illustrated 36-page catalog will enable you to present the subject to customers in as interesting a manner as though you were piloting them through our factory. Men appointed as salesmen receive advice and instructions for selling safes, giving convincing talking points which it is impossible for a prospective customer to deny. Why don't YOU be the first to apply from your vicinity before someone else gets the territory? We can favor only one salesman out of each locality.

The 25th anniversary of our company was celebrated by erecting the most modern safe factory in the world. Wide-awake men who received our special selling inducement, rendered it necessary to double our output. We are spending many thousands of dollars enlarging our sales organization, but to learn all particulars, it will cost you only the price of a postal card.

KENTUCKY DEMOCRATS ARE ASKED TO HELP Redeem the Eleventh District By Defeating Congress- man Powers.

It begins to look like there is a real chance to elect Hon. Ben V. Smith to Congress from the Eleventh District. The Progressives have put up a strong candidate in the person of a popular engineer of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, who will necessarily divide the Republican vote with Congressman Caleb Powers, who seems to have lost out with all factions because of his failure to please either and his inability to land any of the prizes for his constituents in the shape of offices. The people of his district have come to the conclusion that he is absolutely without influence in Washington and as a Kentucky Legislator once said of another, "his people had just as well write a letter and kept him at home." At the last election Mr. Powers did not poll near the strength of his party, and this time he will fall short of his former vote. The Republicans no longer regard Mr.

Smith as an asset but a liability, and think he has been "vindicating" himself.

Conditions at present point to the election of Mr. Smith. He is popular with the Republicans and will draw many a vote from the conservative element of that party. The Democrats of that neck of the woods are short of money, however, to conduct the campaign, which, in a district composed of so many counties, requires much money for necessary expenses. In order to raise a fund, Colonel Woodson May, State District Committeeman, editor of the Somerset Journal and manager for Mr. Smith, announces that he will attempt to raise money for the campaign in his district by popular subscription of one dollar and asks that all who want the Democrats to succeed in that stronghold of Republicanism will send him that amount each. The effort is commendable and the contribution will prove an excellent investment. It is hoped that all who read this article and who feel able to do so, will send Mr. May a check for at least a dollar and help the struggling Democrats of the Eleventh District to redeem it.—[Lexington Herald, Aug. 12.]

Editorial Note—Colonel Woodson May is strictly reliable and will use all funds entrusted to him discreetly.

HARTFORD PROOF

Should Convince Every Hartford Reader.

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy bids you pause and believe. The same endorsement by some stranger far away commands no belief at all. Here's a Hartford case. A Hartford citizen testifies. Read and be convinced. J. A. Balrd, farmer, R. F. D. No. 5, Hartford, Ky., says: "I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills but that was all I needed to cure me of kidney weakness. For some time I have been troubled with sharp twinges across my loins. As I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a supply from the Ohio County Drug Co. and their use cured me. I can highly recommend this remedy." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Advice to the Aged.
Age brings infirmities, such as sluggish bowels, weak kidneys and bladder and TORPID LIVER.

SAY NIGHT RIDERS ARE AGAIN ON THE RAMPAGE

Terrorizing Western Kentucky
Farmers—Judge Calls for Indictments.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 23.—During the past 10 days night riders have become so active in Trigg, Lyon and Caldwell counties that widespread excitement exists, and the Courts have already taken cognizance and are putting forth efforts to stamp out the lawlessness.

Several days ago Judge J. T. Hanberry, presiding over the Circuit Court at Eddyville, in Lyon county, called in the grand jury and delivered a special charge to them to fully investigate the reports of night riding and return indictments if at all possible, assuring them that all the power of the Court was behind them and telling them it was their duty as grand jurors and as citizens, to investigate fully and return indictments if possible, no matter who might be involved.

In Trigg county the authorities will hold a Court of Inquiry tomorrow for the purpose of investigating the reports of night riding in that county. A large number of residents of the county have been subpoenaed to appear before the Court.

It is said that already the officials in that county have a working knowledge as to the chief meeting places of the night riders and the identity of the leaders. In Caldwell county no formal steps have been taken, but it is expected the authorities there will co-operate with the other counties to stamp out the night riding.

So far no actual damage to property or violence to persons has been done, the night riders contenting themselves with writing threatening letters or visiting farmers and ordering them to join the Farmers' Association.

The Association officials condemn all unlawful practices. The prompt measures that have already been taken, and that will be increased if necessary, it is believed will stamp out the practice before it spreads.
